

School Food Fundraisers & Competitive Foods in Elementary, Middle & High Schools as of July 2014 v1

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) recently issued “All Foods Sold in Schools” regulations; they are nutrition standards for snack foods and beverages sold to children at school during the school day. They also include standards for fund-raising activities. These snack foods and beverages are called “competitive foods” because they compete with the healthy reimbursable meals offered through the USDA National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs. Below are the USDA and RI standards which are in effect as of July 1, 2014.

These standards:

- Do not apply to fund-raising held after school or on the weekend, or at off-campus fundraising events.
- Do not apply to foods brought to school in a bagged lunch or brought in for activities such as birthday parties or other celebrations.

While USDA allows competitive food sales, their Healthier US School Challenge program discourages the sale of food for fundraisers. Districts should address healthy fund-raising and healthy celebrations in their local school Wellness Policies.
